Six inch longer wheelbase. Larger body. Larger, quieter motor. Every detail refined and improved.

The new Grant Six is the epitome of six luxury, six comfort and six economy—true economy.

It is richer and handsomer in appearance, and wonderfully complete in its appointments. It not only looks like a big six—it is a big six—though it is a light six.

Grant Six has the largest body of any car below $1000. Wheelbase is now 112 inches—six inches longer than last season's model. Rear seat now extends over the wheel house. Three large people can enjoy rear seat comfort.

A six-foot "man" can stretch his legs in front or rear seat and have room to spare.

Cushions are deeper and softer—upholstery more luxurious.

In every way Grant Six is refined and improved. The motor is larger, giving more power. It is still quieter, still more flexible. It throttles down to 1 1/4 miles an hour—speeds up to more than 50.

Think of a valve-in-head motor, Rayfield carburetor, Allis-Chalmers starting motor and generator, Atwater-Kent ignition, full floating rear axle—one-man top and complete equipment—a complete Six for $795.

We suggest that you get a road demonstration—let the Grant Six talk for itself.

In the Legislature

The Legislature is now down to business and we will soon see what there is in store for us in the way of new and better laws.

One of the first bills to be acted upon will be the Anti-pass law.
We have never tried to dictate to any one, and we surely would not go on record as telling the Members of the General Assembly what to do in any case, but we can always be found somewhere on all questions.

We believe there should be an act passed in conformity with the constitution as to the officers of the Nation, State, District, County and City using free passes from common carriers. Not that we believe there is any danger of the companies ever owning any officer who has been elected by the people, as the people usually know the men for whom they cast their vote. But, we do not stop here. There are always a lot of fellows who have to have something to talk about, and,
this has given them a chance to talk about the railroads and whit-tle on a nice piece of soft white pine and cuss everything and everybody who has accumulated anything in this world, and swear that the world is going to the bow-wows, and that the corporations own the officers and are soon going to own the world, and that something must be done.

These same fellows will not work at any kind of work and are always looking for some smooth easy way to get to a fortune, even if they have to steal it.
As a rule the officers are well paid, that is, the law makers, and do not have to sell out. They are men who have integrity, men who have honor, men who have a desire to do something to make for themselves a name, men who want to go on record as being sure enough men. They want to leave a name and a record that their families will rise up and call them blessed; a name the generations yet to come will honor as being men who did something for the general good of all the people of the great State of Kentucky.

What does it matter to anyone
if the railroads do give to the newspaper men passes? The newspaper men can only exist at the best they can do. The newspaper man is the man whom all expect more of than any other individual. He is supposed to tell all the news and do it for nothing. He is supposed to know all and everything; tell of all the marriages, births and deaths; tell all about the great victory his friend Smith won. Tell about Jones losing his best dog. Tell what the railroads and coal mines
are doing and keep the people posted on the change of railroad schedules and excursions. If the editor fails to give this information he is called a scoundrel and ought to have his paper taken away from him. Yet, he ought to do all this gratis and not even get a chance to ride a few miles to break the monotony of his little old dingy office where he worries and worries, trying to get out a paper that gives all the doings of his community.

SOUTHERN DRUG MERCHANT MAKES UNUSUAL STATEMENT

Great Business Losses Due to Neglect

W. WITHERS MILLER

President of the Polk-Miller Drug Company, Richmond, Va., is authority for the following extraordinary statement:

"I estimate that the business men of this country could increase their efficiency fully ten per cent by taking an occasional laxative and not neglecting
the bowels as most of them do."

He also said that if the Department of Commerce in Washington would present each business man in the country with a box of Rexall Orderlies, it would be of great benefit to the national welfare. Rexall Orderlies are prompt in action, pleasant to take and never gripe, can be used by men, women or children, and are just the thing for toning up sluggish livers.

We have the exclusive selling rights for this great laxative. Trial size, 10 cents.
HERNDON DRUG CO., Inc.
THE REXALL STORE

We do not believe the members of the Legislature will pass an act cutting off the newspaper men from the privilege of riding on a pass. This is a privilege that does not interfere with any one. It has nothing to do with the making or breaking of any law. They earn all the courtesies that are extended to them. They are the hardest worked and poorest paid men in the State or Nation.

Judge Sampson's Friends Organize for Effective Campaign in His Behalf

Altho the August Primary Election is more than six months
off, friends of some of the candidates are becoming active in behalf of their choice. This is especially true in the race for Appellate Judge in the seventh
Kentucky Appellate District,
Judge F. D. Sampson, who is undoubtedly the leading candidate for the Appellate Judgeship in this part of the district, is busy holding his court in Barbourville and court will continue here for three weeks yet, with cases already assigned for nearly every day in the term, but the Judge's friends, it is understood, are working on the organization for a systematic and effective campaign in behalf of Judge Sampson for the nomination. Political news from other parts of the district, indicate that his candidacy is taking well with the Republican voters generally. His friends declare that his past official record both as County Judge and Circuit Judge, as well as his reputation as a lawyer and jurist place him before the good people of this district as a logical candidate at this time, and a winner
in the race.

Wanted, An Engineer

What has the new year in store
for this town?

Are we to go backward, stand still or go ahead?

The towns which are going ahead are the towns in which a few enterprising citizens work
for the good of the community.
Every town has its drones and its twilight sleepers.

We have them in this town,
but one good live wire can overcome the handicap of half a dozen slackers. The drones can be galvanized into life and the slack-ers may be shamed into enlisting
in the army of progress.

It is the knocker whose influence is hardest to overcome.
Often a town knocker is a man of influence and wealth.

He knocks because, to him,
progress may mean a little more tax to pay, a little more work to do or a few more improvements to make in order to keep up with the procession.

Sometimes he knocks because he fears that in the hustle and bustle of progress some new leader may develop who will unseat
him from his place as the town
oracle and advisor.

So he preaches the gospel of let-well-enough-alone.

And these days that gospel
means stagnation.

This town must not stand still.
The whole country is entering upon an era of prosperity beside which the fat years of the past will be as nothing.

We must keep up with the procession, take advantage of everything that comes our way and exert ourselves in keen rivalry to outdo our neighboring towns in going after the things which do not come our way of their own accord.

Let us scrape off whatever rust
has accumulated upon our brightwork, oil up the bearings, build a rousing fire under the boiler of our town-building machine and put a good engineer at the throttle with orders to "throw her wide open."

The rest of us will furnish the fuel.

"Uncle" Charley Bays, the Member of the House from this District, delivered an address before the members of a committee
at Frankfort the other night and
"brought down the house" with applause. Uncle Charlie will fool the smartest of them. He is a man that can make a speech at any time on any subject. He is a talker of the old school, having been engaged in abusing the devil for the past twenty-five years.

The Doctors Meeting

Each Doctor and each Midwife
are required to be in the meeting of the medical men at the Court House next Monday, at which time there will be explained to all, how to prevent blindness among children, and a great many other things of interest;
and it is expected there will be quite a number of them present.
It is an important meeting, and all citizens should turn out to this meeting.

Congress has a serious problem
to face in providing adequate laws against "dumping." Dumping is the selling of a product in a foreign country at a lower price than it is sold at home. In the rebuilding of Europe, which must follow the war, the United States, in all probability, will be the object of a dumping campaign by foreign nations. If this should happen, the markets of this country would be demoralized. The United States is rich. Foreign nations, broken in fortune, by every trick of trade, will attempt to rebuild their fortunes at the expense of the United States.

Canada, South Africa and Australia have laws to prohibit dumping. The necessity for adequate laws for the United States
is an immediate one.

NOTICE

The Knox Fiscal Court at its last term, made an order that all claims due and payable out of the road and bridge fund be put on payroll and certified to by me.

You are hereby advised that I will not enter any claim on payroll that has not been properly made out and sworn to by the overseer, or person in charge of the road or work, and you are requested to turn in your claims to me, two or three days before the court meets, so I will have time to get it on my payroll.

WHY YOU ARE NERVOUS

The nervous system is the alarm system
of the human body.

In perfect health we hardly realize that we have a network of nerves, but when health is ebbing, when strength is declining, the same nervous system gives the alarm in headaches, tiredness, dreamful
sleep, irritability and unless corrected,
leads straight to a breakdown.

To correct nervousness, Scott's Emulsion is exactly what you should take; its rich nutriment gets into the blood and rich blood feeds the tiny nerve-cells while the whole system responds to its refreshing tonic force. It is free from alcohol.

Considering The Cow.

Oh let us cultivate the cow.
And try and educate her.
Let us by all means show her how Culture, might yet translate her
From simple bovine, crude of taste,
To quite a charming creature,
With rather complex problems faced
Oh, let us up and teach her!

Surroundings, quite important are;
Environment and training
Just like heredity go far—
And culture knows no feigning.
A carpet, say, in Bossy's stall
Will make for true refinement;
The vulgar straw is, if at all,
For ordinary kine ment.

A phonograph might be installed
To play Il Trovatore.
Of other gems so well recalled,
Or bits of oratory.
Some paintings, too, will lend a tone
Of culture to the stable.
And Boss will come into her own;
As far as she is able.

For her, too slow, the days sped by
In years that were not Leap.
Anxiously she wated, with a sigh,
For she wanted him, for life to keep.
Leap Year came, she braver grew,
Pressed her suit while she'd a chance
'Till soon the Judge made one of two,
And now she gamely wears the pants.

LEXINGTON HERALD MAIL LIST ON A STRICTLY CASH BASIS

The Lexington Herald has announced its usual first of January offer of $5.00 paid in advance mail subscription rate. This is open to old and new subscribers alike and means a saving of at least $1.00. The Herald has placed its list on a purely cash in advanced basis and discontinues
on the first and fifteenth of each month all subscribers not paid up to or in advance of those dates.
It has, therefore, notified all of those whose subscriptions expire
during the first part of January of their exact date of expiration and asked for an early remittance so that its subscribers may not miss a single copy of the paper.

Gets Another Judgment

Wiley Hill, who was awarded a judgment against The Carter
Coal Co. in the Knox Circuit Court for $15,000 in 1914, and it having been set aside by the Court of Appeals, was again
awarded a judgment in the same court Wednesday for $4,150. The plaintiff was represented by Golden & Lay and the defendant was represented by Black & Owens.
This shows you can hardly find two juries that will see a case
the same way.

In the case of Girdner against the Cumberland R. R. Co. for the loss of his boy's leg resulted in a verdict of $2,000 for the boy
for permanent injury and $2,000
for his father for loss of services of the boy. The plaintiff was represented by Sawyer A. Smith and the defendant by Black & Owens.

There has been a lot said about
T. F. Fuson suing the Cumberland R. R. Co. for bumping some cars against him. He is the father of thirty children. The jury brought in a verdict for the railroad company. They probably thought he should put in a claim against the Government for a pension. He sure remembers the command God gave Noah
when He told Noah to go forth, multiply and replenish the earth.

Local Briefs

Keep your black or blue eyes on England's prices.

W. A. Stanfill, of Hazard, spent the first of the week with home-folks.

Miss Nancye Riley, of Benham, is spending several days with her mother, Mrs. Martha Riley.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Kuhn, of Warren, were here the first of the week the guests of friends.

Mr. L. M. Cole and son, W. J. were in Louisville last week, returning by way of Frankfort.

Senator B. B. Lewis spent Saturday and Sunday with his family here, returning to Frankfort Sunday night.

Miss Vesta Ingram, of Four Mile, is the guest of Mrs. B. C. Lewis. She will enter school at Union College in a few days.

Remember that Father Englund is the only merchant in Kentucky that took off the tariff when Wilson went in.

Mrs. John Root, Jr., of Corbin, and Mrs. Walter Nicholson, of Ettawa, were visitors of Mrs. J. D. Tuggle last Saturday and Sunday.

England carries a fine line of Pants, Overshoes, Gloves, Hats, Caps; Skirts, Suspenders, Belts for Men and Boys.

Mr. Chas. Chandler, President of the Tri-State Telephone Co., was here Wednesday and Thursday looking after business interests.

Just Received a big lot of "The Queen Skirts" at England's. Ladies call and see something new and up-to-date in Skirts. Prices right.

Mr. Mike Sherman, senior member of the firm of Sherman and Cawn, will be here about the first of February. Mr. Sherman lives in Baltimore and runs one of the biggest stores of that city.

Arrangement have been made for the opening, in the Spring, of one of the finest garages in this part of the State. A number of high-class cars will be kept on hand for demonstrating purposes.

Mrs. Sol T. Steele was called away Thursday by telegram announcing the death of her aunt, Mrs. H. A. Cameron at Hamilton Canada. Mrs. Cameron was well known in Barbourville, she having visited here some three years ago.

Mrs. Steele left for Canada Thursday afternoon and expected to arrive there in time for her aunt's funeral.

We desire to thank the people of Barbourville and vicinity, for their many kindnesses during our son's serious illness; especially those who remembered us in a substantial way.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Blackburn.

WOMAN'S DREAM IS TRUE AT LAST

She Knows Why Multi-Millionaires Offer to Divide Fortunes.

To be a sufferer from nervous dyspepsia for ten years, and to bear all the tortures, mental and physical, that this all too common ailment brings, and then to find relief almost over night, is like having a happy dream come true.

But this was the delightful experience of Mrs. Margaret Hunter, of 40 Eighteenth street, Newport, Ky. Mrs. Hunter, the wife of a well-known and highly successful real estate dealer in the Kentucky city, recently told of the long hoped for change in her life.

"For ten years," explained Mrs. Hunter, "I have suffered from nervous dyspepsia. When I read of the offers of multi-millionaires to divide their fortunes if they might be cured of this terribly distressful malady, I felt that in this way they most eloquently told of their sufferings, and I felt, too, that I would never be cured, because I had no millions to offer.

"I used all manner of remedies without avail. Even the strictest dieting did not help me materially. Food in any form was absolutely repellant at most times. But worst of all, of course, was the symptoms that dyspepsia causes—headaches, backaches, and pains in the kidney regions, nausea, dizziness, sleeplessness, bad taste in my mouth, a coated tongue, forming of gas in my stomach and bloating, and I was in a generally rundown and thoroughly nervous condition.

"And then came the joyful surprise. After the first few doses of Tanlac I was benefited. Now I am back to a normal condition, nerves quieted, restful sleep, and my food digesting as it should, and of course, I am gaining strength daily.

"My husband, who has seen the splendid effect of Tanlac on me, has also taken it."

Tanlac, that inspired this intensely interesting story, big in importance to men and women everywhere, now is being introduced in Barbourville, Ky., at The Herndon Drug Co's. store, where it is being fully explained daily.

E. N. Early, Pastor of the Corbin Circuit, just closed a glorious revival at Old Camp Ground with 28 conversions. Twenty-five joined the church and 20 were baptized, Sunday. The church is all revived.

H. W. and G. E. Smith, leave Saturday for Richmond, where they will enter school at the State Normal

Miss Corinne Harmon, of Boston, Mass. formerly of London, who week before last was a guest of Mrs. J. A. McDermott, presided at the piano at a reception given by President and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson at the White House, Tuesday, January 11th.

Attention Ladies! Remember that E. T. England & Co., still handle the "Queen Skirts"—No skirts on the market equal them in style and perfect fit.

Satisfied customers! That was a trio of satisfied customers who walked out of England's store one day last week. Why? Because one lady had purchased both a Queen dress, and a Queen skirt—Both garments were a perfect fit both the dress and skirt were up-to-the last minute in style. And prices right as they always are at this store. Another lady had purchased a beautiful silk dress, all right in every particular, price only $15. The other one of the trio a beautiful new-up-to-date skirt, the very latest creation in black and white.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE

G. T. Barton, Pltff. VS. Quincy Nelson, et al Deft. By virtue of an order of the Knox Circuit Court, rendered at its November Term, 1915, in the above styled action, I will as Master Commissioner, at the Knox County Court House, in Barbourville, Ky., on the 24th day of January 1916, in the first day of the regular January Term of the Knox County Court proceed to sell to the highest and best bidder, the following described property: to satisfy the said order and judgement in this case, for division of the proceeds among the litigants plaintiff and defendants, and consisting of a certain tract or parcel of land, in Knox County;

On Stewarts fork of Lynn Camp Creek, bounded on the north by the lands of Lizzie Mitchell, on the east by the land of Geo. Barton, on the south by the land owned by the heirs of Samuel G. Barton, on the west by the land of M. M. Barton, and being the same land conveyed to the heirs of Lidy A. Nelson by Elizabeth S. Barton by deed bearing date January 27th, 1908, which deed is recorded in deed book No. 12 at page 604 in the office of the clerk of the Knox County Court.

The sale will be made on a credit of six months, the purchaser to give bond with approved security, bearing interest at the rate of six percent per annum, and having the force and effect of a judgement, with a lien retained on the property until the purchase money is all paid.

Given under my hand, this 5th day of January 1916.

Sol T. Steele, Master Commissioner, K. C. C.

H. G. TROSPER DIES IN OKLAHOMA CITY

Born in Knox County, July 6, 1843.

(The Daily Oklahoman)

Oklahoma City, Jan. 10, 1916.—

H. G. Trospers, 73, veteran of the civil war, member of the first territorial legislature, former state commander of the G. A. R. and always identified prominently with the movements for the betterment of Oklahoma City and county, died at his home, 620 West B. avenue, Capitol Hill at 5:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Death was due to an acute case of stomach trouble with which he had been suffering for some time.

With the death of Mr. Trospers came the close of a long and varied career. He made the "run" into Oklahoma territory April 22, 1889, staking a lot at No. 5 West Fifth street. His ability as a leader gave him an easy election to the first territorial legislature in August of 1890 and to Mr. Trospers, J. L. Brown and C. J. Jones, was given the credit for having put through the first bill, locating the capitol at Oklanoma City. While the bill was eventually vetoed by the acting governor, the framers of the original bill were not disheartened and their subsequent efforts coupled with the efforts of other prominent Oklahoma citizens brought about a realization of the early dreams of the residents of this city.

Born in Kentucky

Mr. Trospers was born in Knox county Ky., July 6, 1843. He has been a member of the Masonic fraternity since 1867 and upon coming to Oklahoma City transferred his membership to Siloam lodge, The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon from the chapel of Marshall & Harper 1010 North Broadway and will be in charge of Siloam lodge. Rev. J. E. Pershing, pastor of the Harrison avenue Congregational church, will deliver the sermon. Interment take place in Fairlawn cemetery beside the body of Mrs. Trospers, who died in 1905.

For three years, Mr. Trospers was a member of the Seventh Kansas cavalry. He was wounded in the Battle of the Wilderness by an exploding bomb, a piece of which took effect in his skull. A delicate surgical operation in which a silver plate was substituted for a piece of the skull saved his life. During his military service the decedent was promoted several times for bravery. On one or two occasions he attained the rank of first Lieut. but was always demoted for leading his men into dangerous places without authority from his commander. He was absolutely fearless in battle and in spite of his recklessness he won favorable attention many times.

Mr. Trospers has always been

A UNIQUE RECORD

Very Few Like it in Our Broad Republic.

Grateful testimony for Doan's Kidney Pills, published everywhere is of itself convincing evidence of merit. Confirmed testimony forms still stronger evidence. Years ago, a citizen of this locality gratefully acknowledged the benefit derived from Doan's Kidney Pills. The statement is now confirmed—the proof more convincing. Cases of this kind are plentiful in the work of Doan's Kidney Pills—the record is unique.

Herman Hanser, farmer, Whiteley road, London, Ky., says: "I suffered constantly for two or three years from disordered kidneys. When I had these attacks my kidneys got out of order and my back was so lame and weak I had to lay off from work. Mornings when I got up, I felt too weak and tired to hardly walk and I had an ache through my back and kidneys. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills gave me great relief."

ADDED PRAISE.

Over three years later Mr. Hanser said: "All I have ever said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills, still holds good and I am glad to repeat it."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Hanser has twice publicly recommended. Foster Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

active in the G. A. R., and for one term several years ago he held the position as state commander. He has always been a farmer and land owner. Shortly after coming to Oklahoma City he purchased a farm southeast of the city and lived there for a number of years. Up until a short time before his death he was a heavy land owner, but distributed his holdings among his children, all of whom are living. He was the former owner of Trospers Park, a track of 620 acres which has been purchased by the city.

Mr. Trospers leaves to mourn his death five children as follows: Mrs. F. H. Lowrey, Frankfort, Kan.; Mrs. G. W. Carrio, 128 West Eighth street; Frank Trospers, 305 East Fifth street; manager of the collection department of the State National bank; Bert Trospers, 506 East Fifth street, receiving teller of the State National bank, and Clarence Trospers, 529 West Eighth street, manager of the Foreign department of the American National bank.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

and to worship with sealed lips a rebellious heart. The night before he was to go to attend the trial of Luke Thixton came with a very full and heart. He knew that it might arewell. Tomorrow he must put to test all his hold on his people and his audacity of resolution. He stood at the verge of an Austerlitz or Waterloo, and he had undertaken the thing for no reason except that it pleased her to command it. He knew that among his own followers there were smiles for the which a "furrin" woman had come to see his plans those smiles failure more derisive. It was weakness to let her with boundless adoration stare at him. Tonight he must tell her that he was doing these things because he loved her; that, while he was glad to do them,

Christmas Was Only Two Days Off and Her Gun Rack Was Empty.

he could not let her go on misunderstanding his motives. But when he reached the school she rose to receive him, and he could see only the slimmest of her graceful figure and the smile of welcome on her lips, and the man who had never been recreant before to the mandate of resolution, became tongue-tied. She held out a hand, which he took with more in his grip than the hand-clasp of friendship, but that she did not notice. "Anse," she laughed, "I've had a letter from home today urging me to give up and come back. They don't realize how splendidly I am going to succeed, thanks to your help. I want you to go with me soon and mark some more trees for felling. It won't be long now before they can begin building again." "I wonder," he said, looking at her with brows that were deeply drawn and eyes full of suffering, "if you'll ever have time to stop talkin' about the school for a little spell an' remember that I'm a human bein'." "Remember that you're a human bein'!" she questioned in perplexity. She stood there with one hand on the back of her chair, her face puzzled. He decided at once that this expression was the most beautiful she had ever worn, and he sturdily held that conviction until her eyes changed to laughter, when he forsook his allegiance to the first fascination for the second. "Are you sure you are a human bein'?" she teased. "When you wear that sulky face you are only half human. I ought to make you stand in the corner until you can be cheerful." "I reckon," he said a little bitterly, "if I'd ordered me to stand in the corner I'd just about do it. I reckon that's about how much manhood I've got left." But he laughed, too, in the next moment. The morning of the trial dawned on a town prepared to face a bloody day. Long before train-time crowds had drifted down to the station. As though by common consent, the McBriars stood on one side of the track and the Haveys on the other. For an hour they massed there, lowering of face, yet quietly waiting. Then the whistle shrieked across the river and each crowd moved a little forward, hands tightened on rifles, awaiting the supreme moment. The deputy sheriffs came out of the depot and stood waiting between the two groups with a strained assumption of unconcern. But when the train arrived it carried an extra coach, and at sight of it the McBriars groaned and knew once more they were defeated. They had come to greet a prisoner from a sheriff's posse and encountered trained soldiery. Behind the opened coaches of the coach they saw a solid mass of blue overcoats and brown service-hats. Every window bristled with rifle-barrels and fixed bayonets. Then, while the train was being its usual brief stop, and while those rifle-barrels were trained impartially on Haveys and McBriars, a line of soldiers began pouring out into the roadbed and forming cordons along each side of the track. Both lines moved slowly but unwaveringly forward, pressing back the crowds before their urgent bayonets. Two wicked-looking galling guns were unloaded from the baggage car, and, tending them as men might handle beloved pets, came squads whose capes were faced with artillery red. Shortly a compact little procession in column of fours, with the galling guns at its front and a hollow square at its center, was marching briskly to the courthouse. In the hollow square went the defendant, handcuffed to the sheriff. Without delay or confusion the galling guns were put in place, one commanding the courthouse square and one casting its many-eyed glance up the hillside at the back. Then, with the bayonets of sentries crossed at the doors, the bell in the cupola rang while Judge Sidering walked calmly into the building and instructed the sheriff to open court. His honor had directed that every man save officials who sought admission should be disarmed at the door. Luke Thixton bent forward in his chair and growled into the ear of Old Milt McBriar, who sat at his left. "I've got as much chanst hyar as a fish on a hilltop. Hain't ye goin' ter do nothin' fer me?"—and Milt looked about helplessly and swore under his breath. One onlooker there had not been searched. Young Jeb bore the credentials of a special deputy sheriff, and under his coat was a holster with its flap unbuttoned. While the panel was being selected, while lawyers wrangled and witnesses testified, while the court gazed off with half-closed eyes, rousing only to overrule or sustain a motion, young Jeb sat with his arms on the table, and never did his eyes leave the face of the accused. It was a very expeditious trial. Judge Sidering glanced at the faces of Old Milt and young Jeb, and had no desire to prolong the agony of those hours. The defense half-heartedly relied upon the old device of a false alibi, which the state promptly punctured. Even the lawyers seemed in haste to be through, and set a limit on their arguments. At the end his honor read brief instructions, and the panel was locked in its room. Then the McBriars drew a little closer around the chair where Old Milt waited, and the militia captain strengthened his guard outside and began unostentatiously sprinkling uniformed men through the dingy courtroom until the hoddend-gray throng was flecked with blue. At length there came a rap on the door of the juryroom, and instantly the low drone of voices fell to a hush. His honor poured a glass of water from the chipped pitcher at his elbow, while Luke Thixton and Milt McBriar, for all their immobility of feature, braced themselves. Like some restless animal of many legs, the rough throng along the courtroom benches scraped its feet on the floor. Young Jeb shifted his chair a little so that the figure of the defendant might be in an uninterrupted line of vision. His right hand quietly slipped under his coat, and his fingers loosened a weapon in its holster and nursed the trigger. Then, with a dragging of shoe-leather, the twelve "good men and true" shambled to a semicircle before the bench, gazing stolidly and blankly at the rows of battered law books which served his honor as a background. There they stood awkwardly in the gaze of all. Judge Sidering glanced into the beetling countenance of their foreman and inquired in that bored voice which seems a judicial affectation even in questions of life and death: "Gentlemen, have you agreed upon a verdict?" The foreman nodded. The sheet of paper, which he passed to the clerk, had been signed by more than one juror with a cross because he could not write. "We, the jury," read the clerk in a clear voice, "find the defendant, Luke Thixton, guilty as charged in the indictment." There, although he had not yet reached the end, he indulged in a dramatic pause, then read on the more important clause in the terms of the Kentucky law which leaves the placing of the penalty in the hands of the jurors—"and fix his punishment at death." As though relieved from a great pressure, young Jeb McNash withdrew his hand from his holster and settled back in his chair with fixed muscles. Judge Sidering's formal question broke in on the dead quiet. "So say you all, gentlemen?" and twelve shaggy heads nodded wordless affirmation. Soldiers filed in from the rear. In less than thirty seconds the prisoner had disappeared. Outside the galling guns remained in place, and the troops patrolled the streets. For two days the McBriars stayed in town, but the troops lingered long er, and in that time Luke had again been taken back to Louisville. Once more Old Milt led back a disgruntled faction with no more spirited a program than to go home and bide its time again. When they brought Luke back to hang him, his friends would have one final chance. A seeming of quiet, under which hot wrath smoldered, settled over hill and cove, but a new note began to run through the cabins of the McBriar dependents. It was a note of waning faith and loyalty for their chief. Old Milt read the signs and felt that his dominion was now a thing upon which decay had set its seal, and under his grave face he masked a breaking heart. His star was setting, and since he was no longer young and utterly incapable of bending, he sickened slowly through the wet winter, and men spoke of him as an invalid. With Milt "affin'" there was no one to take up the reins of clan government, and those elements that had been held together only by his iron dominance began drifting asunder. One mill day when a group of McBriars met with their sacks of grist at a water-mill, someone put the question: "Who's a-goin' ter go down thar an' take Luke Thixton away from thar Haveys now thet Old Milt's down an' out?" There was a long silence, and at last a voice drawled: "Hilt hain't a goin' ter be me. What's Luke Thixton ter me, anyhow? He didn't never lend me no money." "I reckon thar's a heap o' sense in thet," answered another. "Pears like, when I come ter recollect, mos' of ther fightin' an' fursin' I've done in my time hain't been in my own quarrels nowhow." And slowly that spirit spread. When Anse Havey went over to the school one day Juanita took him again to the rifle-rack, now once more well filled. "Have a look, my lord barbarian," she laughed. "Mars is paying me tribute. So shall it ever be with tyranny." Slowly, and one by one, Anse Havey took up the pieces and examined them. "It ain't only Mars that's paying ye tribute," he thought, but he only said: "That's all right. I seem to see more McBriar guns there than Havey guns. It would suit me all right if ye got the last one of 'em." "Hain't you as well hang yours there, too?" she teased. "I'm still willing to give you the honors of war." But he only smiled. "I'll hang mine up last of all, I reckon. Luke Thixton ain't hung yet, and there's other clouds a brewin' besides that." "What clouds?" she asked. "There was a bunch of surveyors through here lately," he replied slowly. "They just sort of looked 'round and went away. Some day they'll come back." "And then?" "Anse Havey shrugged his shoulders. "I may need my gun," he said. Not until it became certain that he must die did Old Milt send for his son, or even permit him to be told of his illness. But just as the winter's siege was ending Young Milt came home, and two days later the mountains heard that the old feudist was dead. Brother Anse Talbot and Juanita and a doctor who had come from Lexington were witnesses to that leave-taking. They saw the old man beckon feebly to the boy. Young Milt came and sat on the edge of the bed, schooling his features as he waited the final injunctions which, by his code, would be mandatory for life. They all waited to hear the old lion break out in a final burst of vindictiveness, to see him lay upon his boy's young shoulders the unfinished ordeals of his hatreds. But it was the eye of the father, not the feudist, that gazed up from the pillow. His wasted fingers lay affectionately on his son's knee and his voice was gentle. "Son," said the old man, "I'd love ter hev ye live at peace of ye kin. I've done tried ther other way an' hit's kilt me. I'd ruther ye'd let my fights be buried along with my body. Anse Havey's goin' ter run things in these mountings. He's a smarter man than me. I couldn't never make no peace with Anse Havey, but the things that's always stood betwixt us lays a long way back. Mebby you an' him mought pull together an' end ther feud. I leaves thet with you; but hit took death ter make me see hit—"

Here he broke off exhaustedly, and for a time seemed fighting for breath. At last he added: "I've knowed all along thet Luke killed Fletch McNash. I thought I'd ought ter tell ye." A week after the death of the old leader Young Milt rode over to the house of Anse Havey, and there he found Jeb McNash. The two young men looked at each other without expression. Just after the death of his father Jeb would not willingly have renewed their quarrel, and as for Young Milt, he no longer felt resentment. "Anse," said the heir to McBriar leadership, "I rid over here ter offer ye my hand. I've done found out thet Luke is es guilty es hell. I didn't believe hit afore. So fur es I'm concerned, he kin hang, an' I'm goin' ter tell every McBriar man that will harken ter me ther same thing. So fur as I'm concerned," went on the lad, "I'm against the shootin' of any man from the la'el."

Just as the earliest flowers began to peep out with shy faces in the woods, and the first softness came to the air, men began rearing a scaffold in the courthouse yard at Peril. One day a train brought Luke Thixton back to the hills, but this time only a few soldiers came with him, and they were not needed. Juanita tried to forget the significance of that Friday, but she could not, for all the larger boys were absent from school, and all day Thursday the road had been sprinkled with horses and wagons. She knew with a shudder that they were going to town to see the hanging. A gruesome fascination of interest attached to so unheard of an event as a McBriar clansman dying on a Havey scaffold with his people standing by idle. But Luke Thixton, going to his death there among enemies, went without flinching, and his snarling lips even twisted a bit derisively when he mounted the scaffold, as they had twisted when he declined Good Anse Talbot's ministrations in the jail. Since he must die among enemies, he would give them no weakness over which to gloat in memory. He raised his head, and his snarl turned slowly and unpleasantly into a grin of contempt, and his last words were a picturesque curse called down alike on the heads of the foes who put him to death and on the false friends who had failed him. Afterward Young Milt and Bad Anse shook hands, and the younger man said to the older: "Now that I've proved to ye that I meant what I said, I reckon we can make a peace that'll endure a spell, can't we?" And Anse answered: "Milt, I've been hopin' we could ever since the day we watched for the feller that aimed to burn down the school."

Odd Bits of News.

Dassel, Minn.—Nels Benson, 77, and Johanna Dahlberg, 81, were married here recently. Mrs. Benson is the oldest bride Minnesota has ever had.

Chicago, Ill.—The mysterious "pepper bandit," who has been holding up pedestrians for many weeks, was arrested recently. He was an anemic boy, 18 years old, named Fred Logue. He confessed nineteen holdups, all accomplished with a toy glass pistol.

South Bethlehem, Pa.—Joseph Danzko arrived at this place recently with a 10-months old child strapped to his back, on his way to New York. He had walked with the baby on his back from Canada, a distance of 250 miles, keeping the child alive on crackers and water.

Persia, Iowa.—For eleven hours Mrs. August Sedden lay in a trance and saw her friends and relatives preparing for her burial. When the undertaker was about to place her in the coffin, she succeeded in sighing and thus prevented her burial alive. She is expected to recover.

Hood River, Ore.—A sturgeon which has been a captive in a small pool for over 30 years, has been released by Mrs. Sue M. Adams Armstrong, who owned him. The fish had grown from a small one to over six feet in length. Dazed, at first, by his freedom, he quickly recovered himself and disappeared in the deep channel of the Columbia river.

Rickardsville, Ia.—A dog belonging to L. M. Datisman, who rents the home formerly occupied by James Maxwell near here, was seen digging recently, when something glittering appeared in the dirt. Datisman investigated and found a box containing $1,000 in gold coins. It is presumed that Maxwell, who was said to be miserly, used to bury his money. Maxwell was killed in a railroad wreck.

St. Louis, Mo.—"Hands up!" The command came from one of two robbers who entered a saloon recently. The crowd at the bar raised their hands, all except one-armed Michel McCarthy. Then a pistol spoke and McCarthy dropped dead. When the robbers saw McCarthy's empty sleeve they fled panic stricken.

LIBERALS SUPPORT WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Compromise with Purpose of Forestalling State-Wide Prohibition

MAY SUBMIT TO PEOPLE

Redistricting Promised to Remove Republican Complaint—Scores of Bills Introduced, Many Are Nearly Identical.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—(Special.)—All of the Democratic platform recommendations will be adopted at this session of the Legislature with the possible exception of that covering revision of the state's revenue and taxation laws, which may be handled at a special session for that specific purpose upon the call of Governor A. O. Stanley, according to leaders in political circles.

There is a chance for the woman suffrage amendment to be passed which will submit the question to the voters next year. It is claimed that many of the liberals are in favor of this as a forestall and compromise of the state-wide prohibition amendment.

A redistricting measure, fair enough to remove Republican complaint, will no doubt be put through.

Stanley County, a partition of Pike and the 121st county is expected to be created after an interesting fight in both branches of the General Assembly.

The investigation into expenditures for printing is expected to be followed by legislative inquiry into the conduct of certain departments and institutions.

Governor Stanley has welcomed Republican resolutions of this sort and has made it clear that he will insist on the state's affairs being conducted in the same manner as a business man would manage a going concern.

On the first bill day for the Senate, scores of them poured into the hopper.

Senator Frost introduced a State-wide prohibition bill. It provides for a vote to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors to become effective June 30, 1920, and to prohibit the manufacture of intoxicating liquors to become effective June 30, 1920.

Anti-lobby bill was introduced by Senator Williams. It provides that the Secretary of State shall keep a register which shall contain the names of persons appearing before the Legislature in the interest of certain measures. This register will not only contain the name of the lobbyist, but the measures for which he is working.

Among other important bills introduced were:

A bill amending Section 125 of the constitution so as to give equal suffrage to women was presented by Senator Combs.

Another amendment to the constitution was offered by Senator Arnett. This bill seeks to make the State Superintendent of Public Instruction eligible for re-election. The bill provides that the State Superintendent may be elected or appointed, but in either case he is eligible for re-election or reappointment.

The destroying or burning of election stub books is provided for in a measure presented by Senator Brock. The workmen's compensation act was offered by Senator Knight.

Senator Stricklett's bill requires associations or corporations operating in this city to pay employees twice monthly.

The bill of Senator Antle increases the penalties for the unlawful sale of whisky in dry territory.

Owners of live stock slaughtered because of the foot and mouth disease, will be reimbursed if the measure of Senator Zimmerman, providing for the payment of claims for loss suffered on account of the disease is enacted into law.

The bill offered by Senator Combs regulates the right of foreign corporations to do a trust business in this state and to act as trustees under deeds and mortgages.

Senator Glenn's bill creates the office of County Health Supervisor in one or more counties.

The establishment of a Western Normal School for negroes in Western Kentucky is asked for in the bill of Senator Hunsman.

Senator Leach introduced a bill requiring railroads operating for a distance of 15 miles or more to stop all passenger trains at county seats, or at some station within four miles of the county seat.

The operation of ferries by counties is provided for in a bill of Senator Glenn.

Senator Combs introduced a bill amending Section 201 of the constitution, permitting the consolidation of competing telephone companies.

The erection, organization and maintenance of county high schools by two or more counties is provided for in the bill of Senator Frost.

Senator Hiles introduced a bill making it unlawful to use any statement which is untrue, deceptive or misleading in an advertisement and fixing a fine of not exceeding $500 and imprisonment in the County Jail, not exceeding 90 days for such offense.

The holding of county teachers' institutes for rural schoolteachers the first of May instead of the first of August, is asked in the bill of Senator Taylor.

Senator Williams' bill seeks to limit the number of cars in a train to 80.

Senator Knight introduced a bill to amend Section 54 of the constitution to permit the enactment of a workmen's compensation act.

Practically the same bills were introduced in the House.

The resolution by Senator Antle, seeking for the Legislature to send its endorsement of ex-President Taft for the Supreme Court Judgeship, was laid on the table by a vote of 19 to 15, after a number of warm arguments were advanced. Several Democrats supported the resolution. Senator Frost said that he should not be endorsed because he vetoed the Webb-Kenyon bill, claiming that it was unconstitutional.

Senator Robertson spoke earnestly to secure the endorsement of Chief Justice Miller.

Senator Scott said that the entire procedure was out of place and foolish for the Legislature to attempt to suggest who President Wilson should appoint and made a resolution to table the motion, which received a number of seconds and a hearty applause from the gallery.

Later in the week the Senate refused to endorse Judge Benton or any one else.

No Senator fared better than Senator Helm on committee appointments. He was made chairman of Public Road committee, and placed on the Committees on Judiciary, Kentucky Statutes, Printing and Congressional Redistricting. The indications are that he will be one of the busiest members of the session.

Senator Knight, of Louisville, introduced a bill in the Senate to appropriate $63,000 to pay for the cattle killed in the state to eradicate the foot and mouth disease.

Sportsmen from all parts of the state gathered in Frankfort at the call of the State Game and Fish Commission to work out questions and offer suggestions for new legislation on the game laws. They called on Governor Stanley, who commended the work of the Commission, but refrained from endorsing anybody's bill.

Representative Langley has consented to be a candidate for Delegate-at-Large to the Republican National Convention. The state convention will be held March 1st.

The "wet" and "dry" question has been injected into the house several times during the week. The City Council of Frankfort had discussed the matter of providing an ordinance to keep the saloons open until midnight instead of eleven o'clock, in order to provide for the legislators according to the reports.

Rep. Lyon, of Hart County, one of the ultra-drys, introduced a resolution providing that the House resent any inference that the members of the House desired the saloons to remain open for their benefit.

The point was raised that the resolution was out of order. Rep. Humphrey, of Fleming, was presiding in the absence of Speaker Duffey and sustained the point. An appeal, signed by Rep. Harvey and Lyon, was taken.

Vacating the chair, Speaker Humphrey designated Rep. Harry Myers, of Covington, to preside. The appeal was sustained by a vote of 47 to 44. The resolution was then adopted by the vote of 60 to 30.

A petition, seeking the impeachment of J. E. Williams, Judge of McCreary County, alleging he is an incompetent and unqualified official, was filed in the House by Rep. Radcliffe, of Henry County.

The resolution of Rep. Minor, placing the House on record as against extra help, was adopted.

The repeal of the Prison Commissioners and the creation of a board to be known as the Kentucky State Board of Control for Penal and Charitable Institutions, is provided in a bill of Rep. Cary. A board of three members at a salary of $4,000 annually, to be appointed by the Governor, is provided, and they will have complete charge of prisons, houses of reform, state asylums and all charitable institutions.

The Senate adjourned Tuesday out of respect to the memory of the late Senator Walker G. Hall, of Kenton County. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions on his death.

Not satisfied with the number of bills introduced in the Senate carrying out the principle pledges of various members of the General Assembly, the House members introduced two anti-pass bills; two state-wide prohibition bills and two anti-lobby bills.

The Flinn railroad bill, giving the State Railroad Commission the same power over Interstate shipments as the Interstate Commerce Commission made its appearance again this week in both the House and Senate. It was billed and banged out of the legislatures of 1912 and 1914.

Calling for an investigation of the status of the suit of the Commonwealth against Dr. J. N. McCormack, of Bowling Green, former secretary of the State Board of Health, a resolution was unanimously passed by the Senate being introduced by Senator Huffaker. The suit is seeking to recover $63,000, money alleged to have been spent illegally.

It has been announced to Massachusetts that Mrs. Inez Haynes Gilmore has decided to leave that State, and move to California, where she can vote.

Too bad! It will be not only a great mortification and loss to Massachusetts, but a mistake on Mrs. Gilmore's part. The reaction on suffrage will hit California before it hits Massachusetts, and send her back home in sorrow and at vain expense.

Nevertheless, if Mrs. Gilmore wants to catch woman suffrage somewhere while it lasts, there is something to be said for that.

All the same, they won't go.

"Well, in view of the Ancona and a few other trifling insults, are you glad, or not, now that we are 'too proud to fight'?"

"Pooh! We've got 'way beyond that. Now we are too proud to care whether we are licked or not."

This is the open season for Peace. Anyone may take a shot at her, and no questions asked. No licence is required. Bang at her. She is full of holes already.

Willie Willis: What is a damned building?" pa?

Papa Willis: A building in which the owners employ twice as many girls as the law allows, in order to get as much work as possible done before it burns down.

"Be sure and get the right tooth, doctor."

"Don't worry. I'll get it if I have to pull every tooth in your head."

THE FUTURE

TEACHER: What's the difference between a monarchy and a democracy?

PUPIL: They are just the same.

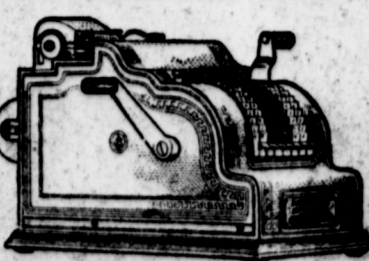

"Wrong."

"Well, teacher, they will be in another twenty years."

"She believes everything she is told, doesn't she?"

"Yes, indeed. Why, that woman would even believe a letter of recommendation."

"I want a pair of pants for my sick husband," exclaimed the

BANKERS AND STOREKEEPERS

Bank Jokes is a humorous paper opposed to big mail order houses, department stores, chain stores, five and ten cent shops. Bank Jokes believes that true prosperity follows home trading. Bank men are "Bank Jokes" when they trade out of town, so are clergymen and town officers. Bank Jokes has been $1 a year, but for the present it is but ten cents a year. Do not send post-stamps. "What size?" asked the clerk. "I don't know, but I think he wears a 14 1/2 collar."

BROAD: By the way, old man, do you remember borrowing ten dollars from me six months ago?

SHORT: Yes.

BROAD: But you said you only wanted it for a short time.

SHORT: And I told the truth. I didn't keep it twenty minutes.

Inklings and Thinkings

You can't watch the clock and opportunity at the same time.

The things we can do best always seem to be the things we don't want to do.

When you hear a pin-head say "There never was a man who could not be replaced" ask him who replaced Shakespeare.

We don't hear so much about tucking the Kaiser away safely at St. Helena as we did about a year ago.

A Missouri editor is booming Henry Ford for president. What make of car does that editor want? One guess.

The Hotel de Gink, planned for Chicago, was a flivver. The ginks are all working.

Among the things we don't care a rap about is where Harry Thaw is spending his time and money. — Louisville Herald.

We pity the one who has never experienced the pleasure of making a child feel happy. — Mother's Magazine.

We cannot have more joy than we give—not more pain. The eternal balance always true. — People's Press.

Frank Drewery had his picture took but he was in Knickerbockers and didn't look natural. — New Era.

A shrewd lawyer has no difficulty in shooting an ironclad will full of holes. — Paris Democrat.

Judge: "You say that this lady bit you. Will you relate to the court just what you were doing when that event took place?"

Book Agent: "Your honor, I was covering territory." — Park City Times.

Edison has planned a submarine that will stay on the bottom one hundred days. One of Uncle Sam's submarines at Honolulu established a record for staying on the bottom. — Danvers Journal.

When prejudice, suspicion and class hatred prevails, power gravitates into the hands of the weak, for demagogues thrive upon dissension and statesmen sick upon strife. — The Jeffersonian

A Kentucky editor was at death's door. The prominent physician of the town was bending over him thoughtfully. He tested the pulse. "Circulation almost gone," he said sadly, suddenly the editor rose up in bed. "That's a lie, sir," he said "we have the biggest circulation in the country." — Louisville Herald

A Shoemakers' convention announces that women must abandon colored and freakish shoes and wear black, sensible ones. The manufacturer who makes a sensible shoe for women will find that he has put his foot in it—the women won't. — The Idiotrist.

was full of zeal for a time, but finally decided there was more pleasure at home than in the wigwam. The reason given was the continual scrapping about nothing that took up a greater part of the evenings and gave him a feeling of disgust. Do you suppose he is the only one who stays away from tribal meetings for the same reason? — The Wigwam.

The Same Old Grin

In olden days we used to grin when some subscriber wandered in and, kinda careless-like would say, "I brung a bar'l o'spuds 'day. They're worth a dollar purty near, so send the paper 'nother year. And mother wanted me to say she liked that piece the other day—th' one you wrote about our Bill a-teaching school up on the Hill— That tickled mother like the deuce an' so she sends this here fat goose. "We never used to need a cent to pay the grocer or the rent. Subscriptions in trade we took got along—by hook or crook. But times have changed and now—adays, we must adopt new-fangled ways. The farmers all are business men. They don't act now as they did then. They sell their stuff for good hard cash, the mortgages have gone to smash a tractor has displaced the mules; the children go to brick high schools, they keep their money in the banks, their gasoline in iron tanks. They don't drop in to see us now—we miss their visits we'll allow—but still, they write us words of cheer—all neatly typed say once a year, they bring the same old grin, by Heck, those welcome words, "send me check."
